Co–Ops Win

The Tobacco Co-operative Association of Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina in the recently concluded contract damages suit against the association has gained favorable verdicts in every one during the past six weeks. In no case tried during that time has an unfavorable verdict been returned against the association.

In addition to the seventy-five jury cases recently won by the association it has secured forty injunctions in North Carolina and nine in Virginia restraining contract breakers from delivering their tobacco outside of the association. In three contempt cases argued by attorneys for the association, two have resulted in jail sentences of twenty days each, and another in a fine of $100 and costs.

The announcement of Hon. Rob't Byrd's Candidacy for Governor appeals in the issue. His platform sounds good. There are two other announcements who hold the same views as Mr. Byrd—Auditor Moore and Senator Mapp. With these three gentlemen already in the field it begins to look like Virginia is blessed with an abundance of good gubernatorial material, and the field is to remain open for other entries until June.

Senator Byrd A Candidate

He shies his hat into the ring for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

My record in the State Senate for the past ten years, which is generally known and is available to the public, makes it at this time unnecessary to set forth in detail the policies which I have supported or opposed.

Under the budget law the duty is imposed upon the Governor of Virginia to recommend to the General Assembly the appropriations for each biennium. This work my training as a business man and my knowledge of State affairs especially equips me. I believe, to perform. I pledge a balanced budget by which the expenditures will not exceed the income, and every possible economy consistent with the necessary expansion and progress of the State in the disbursement of the millions required for its activities.

I will as the campaign develops state my position on other public questions, and particularly as to equality of taxation.

I desire to say further at this time:

1. I am not committed directly or indirectly to any appointment to office, either federal or state. During the campaign I will make no pledges of any kind except publicly and to the public.

2. If I become the executive head of this Commonwealth my constant concern will be to execute all its laws by a vigorous and equal enforcement.

3. There is no room for sectionalism in Virginia. Every part of our Commonwealth is entitled to equal treatment. The election of any man to the high office of Governor dedicates him to the service of the whole State with impartial consideration for every part of it.

4. I have been since early youth engaged in business and in my public life I have endeavored always to apply the lessons of my business experience to public affairs. This experience teaches me that progress is necessary to life and health in business and in government; but that progress must be sought along sane and practical lines, and expenditures, even for desirable objects should bear a reasonable relation to our resources and our ability to pay. No citizen of Virginia desires more than I a wholesome progress in every branch of our varied activities.

With all other patriotic Virginians, I have desired good roads and have labored for them.

I consider the gasoline tax for and opposes the fairest tax ever devised, as it places the burden mainly on those who use and injure our roads. It has the unusual merit of being collected at its source and in full cost, it is collected in full, and is paid in part by tourists. The construction and maintenance of the State highway system and the county highway systems of farm-to-market roads are vital to the prosperity and advancement of Virginia. One provides main arteries of travel and links together the several sections of the State, and the other enables the economical transportation to the markets or shipping points of the farmers' produce.

As one of the patrons of the law establishing the State highway system, its early completion soundly financed, will be my ardent desire. The reorganization highway law, of which I had the honor to be the Senate patron, places a direct responsibility upon the Governor for the efficient conduct of the State Highway Department in the construction and maintenance of State roads. If elected, this responsibility I will earnestly endeavor to discharge. I feel that I have had much important work by the practical experience gained through long public service as President of the Valley Turnpike Company.

5. I realize the enormous importance of universal and adequate education. Every child in the Commonwealth, however circumstanced, should have free and full opportunity for learning those things which will fit him or her for useful citizenship.

Adequate and appropriate care for the unfortunates in our eleemosynary institutions is the sacred duty upon common humanity.

Public health work in this State is now well established, and should be carried on and encouraged.

If elected, it will be my anxious concern to do everything humanly possible to advance the interests of these departments of public welfare.

6. The difficult task of simplifying the operation of executive government and improving our tax system should be taken up with courage and energy. Unnecessary offices and commissions should be abolished and the State government so organized that all economies consistent with adequate service can be enforced. The burden of taxes should fall as equitably as possible upon all sections and individuals.

7. The development of all the natural assets of the State along sound and just lines should be encouraged, especially our great ports and harbors located in Hampton Roads. The great though dormant, water power of our rivers and streams should be churned and conserved for those industries which have need of cheap power and the expansion of which would add to the prosperity of the State.

8. I have already stated my opposition to the proposed Federal amendment which will nationalize our children and destroy our control over them. We have in Virginia adequate child labor laws which I supported with my vote in the Senate. These laws can be amended if changed conditions render necessary. I oppose any unnecessary concentration of authority in either the State government or National government, and believe in home control of home affairs.

STATE CAPITAL

Inter-Racial Law Ruling Rapped.

—Richmond—

The State of Virginia probably will appeal from Judge Henry S. Holt's opinion in which he authorized the marriage of a white man to a woman who is alleged to be of colored ancestry, and make a sweeping attack on the racial integrity law enacted at the 1924 session of the General Assembly.

Dr. W. A. Plecker, State Registrar of Vital Statistics, said that the funds of his department are meager but he will urge that an appeal be taken.

Judge Holt's opinion was rendered in Rockbridge county in the case of Robert Pulliter and Atha Sorrell, who applied for a mandamus after A. T. Shields, clerk of the court, had refused to issue them a marriage license on the grounds that the woman was negroid. The records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics show that Martha Clark, mother-in-law of Atha Sorrell, was born in 1836 and recorded as "free colored."

Commenting on the opinion Dr. Plecker said that he was surprised, as the birth records of his office had been accepted by Judge Holt in a similar case tried in September, when he upheld the clerk for refusing to issue a license.

"The records show plainly that the grandmother of the Sorrels was a free colored woman," Dr. Plecker said. "Further, the genealogical records submitted by the plaintiffs state that the woman's paternal great-grandparents were declared white in 1876, and that a person certainly up on such cases with less than one-fourth negro blood. The fact that a mandamus was applied for by the descendants of this couple to establish that they were legally white seems to me to establish the negroid ancestry."

Dr. Plecker said that Judge Holt's ruling would have no affect on the position taken by the bureau. "The persons recorded as colored will remain colored, so far as we are concerned," he said, "and each case which may arise of a white person applying for a license to marry with one recorded as being of colored ancestry will be fought by us."

John Powell, famous composer, organizer of the Anglo-Saxon Clubs and one of the authors of the racial integrity law, was present at the trial. He is away from the city, it was learned when efforts were made to obtain his comment on the opinion.

Judge Holt expressed "cordial sympathy with the general purpose" of the racial integrity law, but said that it was confusing. "Pure Caucasian blood," the opinion read, "is a definite term which in the present state of knowledge no one can define."

Commenting on the final paragraph of the opinion, Dr. Plecker said that "we are not quite sure of the court's exact meaning. At first reading, this paragraph says that the evidence shows that "there is no strain present in the applicant or any blood other than white, except Indian and there is just enough of that to come within the statute."

"If this decision that there is no strain of negro blood in this woman," said Dr. Plecker, "seems to be predicated on marriage used earlier in the opinion, then I consider the letter of the law does not apply as we must the rule of evidence which is that there must be an appreciable amount of forbidden blood. I am of the opinion that the tobacco shows, etc. I do not believe that the stake meant by former Ind. And I do not know how he ascertained the evidence which led to the opinion he of negro blood, or accepted it and based his decision on the assumption that any strain had been followed out.

"The law plainly states that this strain of negro blood, if it is such, cannot be eradicated in any number of generations."

To Celebrate Battle Anniversary.

Plans for the sixty-fifth anniversary celebration of the battle of Fredericksburg, in which the First and Second Companies of Richmond Howitzers took part, are being worked out by Major E. Lee Macfarlane and Major Bernard H. Baylor, the celebration to be held December 13, at the Fredericksburg Armory. A banquet, musical program and several speeches are planned.

Exams For Indian Service.

Examinations for the position of principal of home economics in the Indian service will be held in Richmond on December 10. These examinations were held some time ago, but a sufficient number of applicants were received.

Apple holdings in cold storage November 1 in Virginia show a slight decrease over one year ago according to a report put out by the State Division of Markets. This report shows that the holdings in boxes and barrels have increased but the decrease in barrelled stock reduces the total volume below that of last year.

Barrelled stock in storage totaled 152,753 barrels or a decline of about 16 per cent. There is a 37 per cent. increase in boxed apples with 142,138 boxes in storage.

Akers—Robertson

On November 25th in Richmond, Va., in the presence of a few friends, Miss Nell Robertson, daughter of Mr. J. H. Robertson, of Spout Springs, became the bride of Mr. Tyler F. Akers of Boyce, Va.

The bride is widely known as a lady of charming personality, and is a descendant of one of our aristocratic Virginia families. She is also one of our most popular young teachers.

Prof. Akers is well known here, having been Professor of Agriculture in our High School. Through loyalty to her school and pupils Mrs. Akers will continue her work here until next spring, at which time this popular young couple will take an extensive trip and return to Boyce their home. We are glad to have Tyler's Nell with us for the rest of the session and sorry that we can't have them always.

U. D. C. Entertained

The Appomattox Chapter U. D. C. held its regular meeting with Miss Ann Caldwell Thursday. The historical program was a study of the battles of Missionary Ridge, Lookout Mountain and Chicamaugua. Miss M. Anna Jones gave a very instructive account of these engagements. Miss Louise Gills read reports from the recent convention of the U. D. C. in Savannah, Ga.

A social hour was then very much enjoyed, at which time Miss Jones favored the guests by singing an old ballad. Delicious refreshments were served consisting of creamed chicken in patties, two salads, tea, coffee, mints etc. The following guests were entertained in connection with the U. D. C. members: Mr. and Mrs. John Wiley, of New York, Misses Hardy and Houser, Mesdames R. C. Wright, Ethel Wright, and Mrs. F. C. Craig. The hostess was assisted in serving by her sister, Miss Florence Mrs. C. R. Caldwell and Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie.

Teachers Resolute

Resolutions adopted by the County Teachers Association of Appomattox county, October 8, 1924, and just filed for publication:

Whereas: we the teachers of Appomattox County duly assembled are desirous of better schools, and better opportunities for the children of our counties, and

Whereas: we are willing and anxious to give our very best efforts to that end, and

Whereas: we are of the opinion that a number of matters pertaining to our school work need attention.

Be it resolved:

1 That we as a body do hereby sanction every move towards securing better health for our pupils.

2 That we believe our schools are very far behind in reading material or suitable libraries and that each school put forth extra effort to get a workable library at once

3 That out door sports are good if kept within due bounds and that friendly competition serves as a stimulus to such activities and we therefore desire that games between schools of equal rank be encouraged.

4 That inter school declaiming contest, debating contest, and field day contest be inaugurated for the coming session, to be held at some central point in the county.

5 That we indorse standard schools. High Schools are of two kinds—a full four year accredited High School and a Junior two year High School. We recommend that unless High Schools can be maintained as one or the other of these types, such schools should better be first class standard graded schools than ill-rated High Schools. We advise that this matter be looked into at each school.

6 That we fully urge a Parents' organization at every school, no matter how small, and we wish to remind the teacher how easily it can be done if she only tries. We do not advise such organizations to cater to any matters, other than the school and pupil. We deplore politics in any school.

7 That we believe our pupils should be taught more citizenship and efforts be put forth along that line. Have pupils organize in bodies or groups and practice exercises of free government and democratic ideas.

8 That we fully endorse the club work of the county, believing it to be the expression side of education.

9 That we endorse the school features of the County Fair, regretting only the short time we have each year to prepare for it.

10 That we appreciate the efforts of our School Board and County Superintendent in all their efforts for school improvements. We solicit their continued interest as we believe there is a great deal more that can be done for our schools.

11 That we advocate the idea that as a teacher improves both as to experience and special preparations, compensation be made accordingly.

12 That we fully indorse the address of Supt Hart, urging Qualitative instruction versus Quantities.

13 That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each school, one copy to the school board and one to the county paper.

Signed: L Crawley, Chr.
